

A piggy boy Danny

Once upon a time, there was a boy who was naughty. His name is Danny. He got into trouble because he broke the vase at home. Mum was very angry and shouted, 'How dare you?' Danny was scared and get away.

While Danny was walking, he lost in the forest. He was so hungry and said, 'Where am I?' He started to look for food. Suddenly, he saw a house in the forest and he went inside. There was nobody inside. He went to the kitchen and saw a big table, there was a lot of food, He was so happy and ate all the food. Suddenly, Danny turned into an ugly pig. He cried and said, 'Oh no! Why did I turn into a pig?'

In the end, a fairy told Danny needed to said sorry to mum to turn back into a boy. Danny went back home and said, 'Sorry, mum!' Mum replied, 'Who are you? Where is my son!' Suddenly, Danny turned back into a boy. They felt lucky.

My ideal job – Be an athlete

My name is Paco. I want to be an athlete when I grow up because it is a challenging and m... job. If I become an athlete, I will help our country to win an Olympic medal.

To be an athlete, I need to be very fit and healthy. For example, I should exercise regularly and eat a balanced diet. I also need to have talent in sports, whether it's running, swimming, or playing a team sport like basketball. As an athlete, my main duty would be to train hard every day. This includes practicing my sport and staying in good shape. I would also need to compete in tournaments. Sometimes I would represent Hong Kong and wear the national uniform, which makes it even more special. Athletes often help inspire others, especially young people who want to be active and healthy. We can also participate in community events to encourage sports and litress.

I believe being an athlete is suitable for me. I love sports, and I enjoy the challenge of pushing my limits. I want to inspire others and make my country proud. If I can work hard and stay dedicated, I know I can achieve my dream of becoming an athlete.

Never tells lie

Jasper was reading a story. The story was about a boy who was dishonest. His name was Charlie.

One day, Charlie was bored when he was looking after the sheep so he shouted, 'Help! The wolves were attacking my sheep!' The villagers heard it so they running up the hill to help Charlie.

When the villagers went up the hill. They looked around and said, 'Where were the wolves?' 'Haha! There's no wolves, silly!' Charlie said and laughed at the villagers. The villagers were very angry and walked away.

Next day, a wicked witch caught Charlie's sister so Charlie told to the villagers but the villagers ignored him and walked away. Charlie was very sad.

After Jasper read that story, he shared the story with his father. 'Father, if I were Charlie, I would never tell lies to the villagers.' Jasper said. 'Of course, because if you always tells lie, nobody will believe in you. Well done, Jasper.' said Dad.

Naughty Danny

Once upon a time, there was a boy called Danny who was very naughty. When he was playing football, the football hit the vase, then the vase broke. Mum saw that and felt very angry. She pointed at the vase and shouted at Danny, 'What are you doing? You always get into trouble. How dare you?'

Danny felt scared and said, 'Help!' He got away from home.

While Danny was walking alone, he was very hungry and lost the way. Danny said hungrily, 'Anyway, I should get some food first.'

Luckily, Danny found a wooden home in the forest. He checked inside and there was nobody. He went inside and found many mouth-watering food, such as sandwiches, apples, pears, bread and fried chicken.

While he was eating a lot of food, he said, 'Yum! Yum! Wow! The food is very delicious.' All of a sudden, he turned into a cute pig. He yelled, 'What happened?' He felt very nervous.

In the end, Danny bursted into tear and a fairy suddenly appeared. The fairy turned Danny back to a little boy and she said, 'Danny, you need to say sorry to your mum. She was very worried about you!' Finally, he went back home and said sorry to his mum. She forgave him and felt joyful.

My ideal job – Be a pilot

My name is Amos. When I grow up, I want to be a pilot because it is a meaningful and my dream job. If I become a pilot, I will travel different places by plane.

To be a pilot, I need to be calm because pilots need to be calm under pressure as flying can sometimes involve stressful situation. Good communication skills are essential for coordinating with air traffic control and the crew. Pilot also need to be smart because they need to know how to drive the plane. They need to have problem – solving skills because smart pilots can analyze problems, troubleshoot and implement solutions efficiently. Pilots need to be brave so that they can navigate through turbulence or storms while maintaining focus and compare and adapt to changing circumstances without succumbing to fear and panic. Pilots need to be outgoing too because they need to communicate with their crew and passengers, especially during emergencies.

I think this job is suitable for me because I am outgoing and brave. My friends and family say I am very smart and outgoing. I Hope I can be a pilot one day!

Dishonest Charlie

Jasper was reading a story. In the story, there was a dishonest boy called Charlie. When he was looking after the sheep, he felt bored. So he shouted, 'Help! Wolf!' He said this because he wants to trick the villagers.

When the villagers arrived, he said, 'There's no wolf, Silly!' He laughed at the villagers. The villagers was angry and walked away. His friend told him not to tell lies anymore.

The next day, Charlie found out his sister was caught by a wicked witch! So he shouted again, 'Help! My sister got caught by a wicked witch!' The villagers went up again but they ignored him because last time Charlie tricked him. They said, 'We don't believe in you!'

After Jasper read the story, he told his father, 'If I were Charlie, I would not tell lies.' Jasper learned he shouldn't tell lies.
